

Columbia Association of Puppeteers

July 2001 No-News letter

Boy, talk about a slow news month. There seem to be things happening, but nobody's letting your newsletter editor know about them, so I have little to report. There's a national puppetry festival happening soon in Florida, and if you're going, you probably have everything ready.

There are some puppeteers here in Portland from Czechoslovakia (or whatever they call it now) who are going to perform as part of the grand opening of the new Trolley system in Portland. They are working with Tears of Joy Theatre, so Call Kris at the TOJ office for details.

Tim Giugni's El Teatro Calamari is going to Europe to do some shows later this summer, and when I get the details, I'll pass them on.

The July meeting is at Esther Heydt's house - Thursday July 26th @ 7:00 pm. Come one, Come all.

Other than that, there's nothing to report, so I won't.
